The Cross-Border Institute for International Studies and Criminal Justice, together with the Faculty of Legal, Social and Political Sciences of the "Dunărea de Jos" University of Galati, cordially invites contributions related to all aspects of Democratization, Governance and Good Governance in direct connection to the regional development.

Good governance describes the implication of the public institutions in managing both public affairs and public resources. The term governance can be applied to corporate, international, national, local governance or to the interactions between other different sectors of society.

In the context of the new challenges, European values of democracy and governance have to face to new approaches and regional development seems to be one of their most important targets. This is why good governance requires many different things in many different contexts for the regional development in present European Union.

We invite authors to submit high quality contributions describing significant, original, and unpublished results in the following categories:

1. Technical papers that cover innovative research in governance activities and should describe new contributions to the research field and carefully support their claims of novelty with citations of relevant up-to-date literature.
2. Vision papers that describe new, non-conventional and model-based development research positions or approaches that depart from standard practice.
