Statehood, as one of the basic elements of international law and international relations, stated through the Westphalian peace treaties in 1648, was the foundation stone of international society over the last centuries. Nowadays, some consider it is being challenged by globalization, thus requesting analysis and reflection from both academic researchers and practitioners in the field of international studies. With this thought in mind, the theme of the current issue of the Cross-Border Journal for International Studies is dedicated to "Sovereignty and statehood – key factors of the international community".
